Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 23 January 2004.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

- 4) ☒ Claim(s) 1-166 is/are pending in the application.
- 4a) Of the above claim(s) _____ is/are withdrawn from consideration.
- 5) ☐ Claim(s) _____ is/are allowed.
- 6) ☒ Claim(s) 1-166 is/are rejected.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 6, 7, 10-15, 19, 24-25, 29, 40-43, 45-57, 61, 62, 64-70, 74, 79-81, 84-86, 94-97, 99-112, 116, 117, 119-125, 129, 134-136, 139-141, 149-153, 155-166 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cloud (United States Patent No. 5,348,031).

Cloud discloses a device comprising a receptacle body defining a reservoir 24, and application element 32, a cavity 23 in flow communication with the reservoir, and a support element 30 on which the application element is mounted. The support element is mounted to pivot relative to the receptacle body between a first position wherein the application element is received in the cavity (figure 2) and a second position wherein the application element is at least partially exposed. Regarding the limitation in claim 1, that the reservoir is “configured to contain a product”, reservoir 24 could hold a product therein and thus is deemed to be so “configured”. The receptacle body is configured to be used as a handle (col. 3, lines 38-53). The support element is mounted via a film hinge 19. The applicator of Cloud is used to apply cosmetic to the skin and thus is deemed “configured to apply a product to at least one of skin, hair...”

Art Unit: 3732

Claims 1-4, 6-9, 11, 13-33, 35-43, 45-59, 61-64, 66, 68-88, 90-97, 99-114, 116-119, 121, 123-143, 145-153, 155-166 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nian (United States Patent No. 5,382,107).

Nian discloses a device comprising a receptacle body defining a reservoir 63 filled with a product, and application element 74, a cavity 64 in flow communication with the reservoir, and a support element 7 on which the application element is mounted. The support element is mounted via a spring-biased hinge so as to pivot relative to the receptacle body between a first position wherein the application element is received in the cavity and a second position wherein the application element is at least partially exposed.

Claims 1-4, 6-9, 11-16, 19-21, 24-30, 32-43, 45-59, 61-64, 66, 68-71, 74-76, 79-97, 99-114, 116-119, 121, 123-127, 129-131, 134-153, 155-166 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Cesari (United States Patent No. 3,741,667).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5, 60, and 115 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cesari.

To provide the device of Cesari with a sealing member, i.e. a gasket, would have been obvious to one skilled in the art in order to assure that no product will leak from the device when the support element is in the first position.

Art Unit: 3732

Claims 44, 98, and 154 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Cesari in view of Landsman (United States Patent No. 4,056,110).

Cesari discloses the invention essentially as claimed except for the head portion having the cavity being removably attached to the receptacle body, i.e. reservoir. Landsman discloses a similar device in which the head portion 16 is removably connected to the receptacle body and reservoir 10 so that the reservoir may be readily replenished when empty. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to removably attach the head portion to the receptacle body in view of Landsman in order to permit ready replenishment of toothpaste in the reservoir.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 23 January 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments that the recess 24 of cloud is not "configured to contain a product", it is noted that the configuration of the recess 24 is such that it could hold a product if so desired. As such the recess is deemed to be "configured to hold a product".

With regard to applicant's arguments that neither Nian or Cesari disclose the application element "configured to apply a product to at least one of skin, hair, toenails and fingernails and/or the reservoir containing a product chosen from at least one of a skin product, a hair product, a toenail product and/or a fingernail product", it is noted that both Nian and Cesari disclose the applicator element being a brush. Clearly a brush could be used to apply a product to at least one of skin, hair, toenails and fingernails and thus is deemed to be so configured. Regarding claims 7, 62 and 117, the bristles of forming the brush can be compressed and thus the application element is deemed to be of a "compressible material".

Art Unit: 3732

With regard to applicant's arguments that Cesari does not disclose the applicator made of a sintered material as set forth in claims 10, 65 and 120, applicant's attention is directed to the rejects set forth previously and repeated above. These claims were not rejected using Cesari and thus such arguments are deemed moot.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
